FIRST LAYER CREATIVE · CHIPEX PILOT · DRAFT FOR APPROVAL

Brief and roadmap for the first 13 pieces

What we will make, who each piece is for, what we want to learn from it, and when it lands. Reply "approved" or tell us what to change.

The goal

Give your Meta account more honest, varied, good-looking creative to test, so the budget finds what brings the cost of a sale down towards your £10 target (never above £15). We cannot promise a number. We can promise a wider spread of ideas than the current 17 ads, each with a reason behind it.

It runs on Meta (4:5 feed and 9:16 Reels or Stories) and on your website and product pages (1:1).

Who we are talking to

BUYER	THEIR MOMENT	WHAT WE WANT THEM TO FEEL
Priya, the body shop avoider	A scratch on the car, dreading the quote and days without it	"I can do this myself, in a morning, and it costs a fraction"
Martin, the burnt sceptic	Seen another "easy repair" video and wasted money before	"They are straight with me about what it can and cannot do"
The first timer	Has a first chip, unsure it is the right job for a kit	"I can see exactly what happens, step by step"
Graham, the repeat buyer	Likes Chipex, needs a reminder before winter	"I should top up my kit"

What we know, and what we will and will not say

What is working

Your longest-running ads are the video repair walk-throughs. The process and the result shown clearly is the strongest thing on the account, so we keep it and build more around it.

What has gone stale

- Newest ad in the Library is 11 August. Oldest is April.
- 17 live ads, but several are the same video with small changes, which Meta tends to treat as one idea.
- One caption on every ad, so nothing is written for a specific buyer.

Claims we will use

- "Excellent Trustpilot review score". Review count only as it stands on the day we publish.
- Kit contents and the three steps (paint, blend, polish), checked against your pack.

Wording we are handling carefully

No "100%" and no "flawless" in this batch. We will test honest wording, such as a realistic repair that is a lot better than a body shop quote, and show you the options in Batch 1 captions. Anything about repair time, undoing a mistake with the blend solution, or mismatch rates will be checked with you before it appears in an ad.

Tone

Straightforward, honest, quality. Never flippant, never down market, no "bodge job" or "quick fix" language.

The 13 pieces

10 stills and 3 videos. Pro leads, because it is about three quarters of your sales. Each piece comes with a short reason card saying why it exists.

Read this first

This set is built to show the widest range of angles, graphics and videos we can make for you. It is not the final strategy, and these are not necessarily the angles we will go down. Those get agreed with you, David and Joel once we have all spoken. For now we want you to see as much of what we can create as possible, so you can tell us what you want more of.

ID	PIECE	FOR	BATCH
CHX-S01	Body shop quote vs a Chipex kit. Honest about the result	Priya, Martin	1
CHX-S02	What a realistic repair looks like, with the Excellent Trustpilot score	Martin	1
CHX-S03	"Keep one ready" reminder for winter, with the 20% offer once David confirms the dates	Graham	1
CHX-S04	Pro kit, white studio shot with shadow (1:1)	Website, ads	1
CHX-S05	New car-care sample 1, white studio shot (1:1)	Range preview	1
CHX-S06	Your proven angle, remade: the repair process and the result in one photographic still	Priya, Martin	1
CHX-V01	Done by lunchtime: the repair at a real pace, and why you take your time	Priya	1
CHX-S07	Chipex vs a cheap touch-up pen	Martin	2
CHX-S08	Three steps: paint, blend, polish	First timer	2
CHX-S09	Winter 20% off (once David confirms the dates)	Everyone	2
CHX-S10	New car-care sample 2, white studio shot (1:1)	Range preview	2

CHX-V02	What is in the box: everything out of the kit, one piece at a time	First timer	2
CHX-V03	Made a mistake? Wipe it off and start again	First timer	2

The in-the-box video (V02) is built from your photos of everything inside each kit, so we can start now. We will check it against the real kit when it arrives.

What each group is testing

Fair comparison (S01, S07)

If we compare Chipex plainly with a body shop quote and a cheap pen, we expect people weighing their options to engage more, because it answers the question they already have.

Honest about the result (S02)

If we describe a realistic repair instead of a perfect one, we expect sceptical buyers to stay with the ad longer, because it matches what they have learned to distrust.

Easy, step by step (V01, V02, V03, S08)

If first timers can see every step and that mistakes can be undone, we expect more of them to click through, because the worry is getting it wrong.

Keep one ready (S03, S09)

If past customers get a timely winter reminder with the offer, we expect repeat buyers to respond, because they already trust the product.

Range preview (S04, S05, S10)

Not a test. It shows what we can do with phone photos of your products, in the style of your site.

Remake of what works (S06)

If we remake the process-and-result idea behind your long-running videos as a photographic still, we expect it to hold attention, because the idea is already proven on your account. Joel's top 5 will confirm which idea to remake.

These are hypotheses to read once the ads have run, not promises. Each is judged on hook rate, click-through and cost per sale, in that order, once there is enough data.

Roadmap

WHAT	WHEN

What we need

From Johnny

- Phone photos of the two new bottles: front, back, both sides, bottom
- Photos of all three kits (Pro, Plus and Lite): every professional photo you have
- Photos of everything inside each kit, laid out so we can see each piece

From David

- Dates for the 20% winter offer
- Sign-off on the wording options in Batch 1

From Joel

- Top 5 ads by spend and cost per sale
- What has been tested, and why the captions are the same
- View-only access to the ad account before the 13th

Reply "approved", or tell us what to change.
